

GRASSI

REAL ESTATE PRACTICE

Conducting business in the real estate industry is difficult. In the New York region, competition is fierce and tax laws are constantly changing. At Grassi & Co., we give our clients what they need to meet challenges and maintain their leading edge in the marketplace. We keep abreast of cutting edge financial trends and issues, while helping companies find proper fiscal solutions in this constantly evolving market. Our knowledgeable, proactive, and experienced advisors are able to assist our clients in all stages of growing their businesses.

Because this industry is a significant segment of our practice, Grassi & Co. serves a large segment of the local and regional real estate market, companies who are aggressively working to find ways to run more efficiently, improve operations and increase their bottom line. Specifically, the firm works with real estate investors, developers, management companies, and other related sectors to help them navigate the choppy waters of the real estate industry.

Our real estate industry experts develop smart accounting systems to improve operations and help clients eliminate overhead. Part of our consultative approach focuses on recommending tax-saving strategies such as like-kind exchanges and cost segregation studies to help accelerate depreciation opportunities.

Grassi & Co. serves the Real Estate industry with extensive experience in such day-to-day issues as:

Tax Planning: Advanced and perceptive tax planning is a crucial component of any successful business. Our tax experts ensure that clients comply with complex and ever-changing tax laws. On a highly customized and individualized basis, we also consult with clients throughout the year to assess, implement and maximize tax-saving opportunities.
